Police pledge cooperation in Ind. Avenue crime fight

Spurred to action by an expose in last week's issue of The Recorder detailing the startling increase in the number of robberies, burglaries, prostitution and narcotics violations, a concerned group of Indiana Ave. business men and women met Tuesday to coordinate plans for a massive police attack on crime in the area.

The Interested Business People and residents of Indiana Ave. Association was formed as an outgrowth of the meeting and the members pledged to give police their full cooperation in halting the spiralizing upsurge of crime in the area.

Police Major Henry Wolf, who was present at the meeting, answered a number of questions proposed by the group and pledged the department's full cooperation in cleaning up the crime-ridden area. "I fully believe that the people have valid complaints and they can rest assured that the department will take the steps necessary to eliminate the reason for the complaints," Major Wolf told The Recorder on Thursday.

"We no more intend to tolerate the vice, the burglaries or the robberies along Indiana Avenue than we did along the so-called "strip" the ranking police official noted.

He said the regular uniform patrols along the Avenue would be beefed-up and that the narcotics and vice divisions of the police department would be asked to "substantially increase their activities" in the area.

Wolf added that he felt the appalling increase in street crimes in the area was due, in large measure, to the "dangerously high" rise in the number of narcotics violations — in the area and

HUD to collect racial, ethnic data on department programs

The Department of Housing and Urban Development will institute a system for the collection of racial and ethnic data in all HUD assisted programs, Secretary George Romney announced this week.

He appointed Samuel J. Simmons assistant secretary for Equal Opportunity, to convene a working group of HUD officials for all program units to develop such a system as quickly as possible.

Secretary Romney noted that HUD is responsible for administering a variety of civil rights laws and Executive Orders relating to non-discrimination.

He said, "It is impossible to carry out these responsibilities affirmatively without information as to the racial and ethnic composition of applicants for and recipients of HUD assistance. Such information will also enable us to deal more effectively with complaints that we receive."

The Secretary pointed out that a number of federal agencies, such as the Farmers Home Administration and the Small Business Administration, had developed systems for racial and ethnic data collected, and that several programs at HUD now collect such data.

"The time has come," he said, "to collect such data uniformly for all HUD programs."

Klan material distributed at 2 high schools

Mayor Richard G. Lugar this week, joined the Indianapolis Urban League in condemning the recent distribution of Ku Klux Klan hate literature around several city high schools and in calling for the swift apprehension and prosecution of "those persons responsible."

The hate literature was distributed around Manuel High School and in and around the campus at Arsenal Tech.

In a statement issued Tuesday, Mayor Lugar strongly condemned the persons responsible for passing out the hate material which was believed to have been distributed by the Klan.

"The city of Indianapolis will not tolerate deliberate attempts to violate state or local statutes designed to control hate literature," the mayor admonished.

"I applaud the vigorous action of Chief Winston Churchill in promptly investigating this incident."

Racketeering in hatred was declared illegal in statute passed by the 1947 Indiana General Assembly. The law provides for disfranchisement, a fine of up to $10,000 and a stiff jail sentence. He promised that any recurrence would be dealt with promptly and decisively.

'Go Home, Nigger,' Swedes tell envoy

STOCKHOLM, Sweden--Newly-appointed ambassador to Sweden, Dr. Jerome H. Holland, was taunted by Swedish youths last week with shouts of "Go Home, Nigger."

The hecklers were anti-American demonstrators and the verbal assaults took place as Dr. Holland rode through the streets of Stockholm to present his credentials to King Gustav VI of Sweden. Apologies were fast in coming to the ambassador, all the way from the King of Sweden to "just plain people on the street," following the incident.

Dr. Holland, 54, who resigned his position as president of Hampton Institute in Virginia to accept the ambassador's position, said he resented the term. He was also the target of demonstrators' insults when he arrived here earlier this month.

The former educator told newsmen, after he had presented his credentials, that he was not too concerned with the verbal attack as such.

"They are a part of the political life in a free, democratic nation," he declared.

"However, I'm just a little bit concerned when I hear such remarks as 'Nigger,'"

Premarital conceptions found high

WASHINGTON — One third of all first-born children in the United States from 1964 through 1966 were conceived out of wedlock, a government survey disclosed this week. Hastily arranged marriages gave many babies legitimacy by the time of their birth, but one out of every seven was born illegitimate during that period.

These were among the major findings of an extraordinary report from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, based on a solid sampling of one out of every 1,000 first births in those years. It was the first attempt in this country to obtain national estimates of extramarital conception. The study, conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics, pointed up a connection between income and pregnancy at the time of marriage.

More than 37 percent of women in families earning less than $3,000 a year went to the altar pregnant. A shade more than eight percent from families with income exceeding $10,000 were expecting when married.

Forty-two percent of the married women under 20 had been wed less than eight months when their first baby was born.

The size of the sample was 11,331 first births out of 1.1 million in the United States annually from 1964 through 1966. Statistics are being gathered for more recent years, but the data has not been tabulated.

Those who took the last survey said there was no way to predict now whether newer figures would show more, less or the same number of illegitimate babies. They cited as impediments the effects of the birth control pill and increasing sexual freedom.

Rev. Jackson picked by SCLC to be officer in Midwest

CHICAGO — The Rev. Jesse Jackson, director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference' Operation Breadbasket here, was appointed last week as a national vice president of SCLC.

His appointment was announced by the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, SCLC, president. Rev. Abernathy was in town to express SCLC's full support of Breadbasket's drive to end hunger among Chicago's and Illinois' black citizens.

Rev. Jackson will be one of "six or seven" national vice presidents, according to Rev. Abernathy. They will assist him in planning and implementing SCLC programs throughout the nation. In addition, the vice presidents will be responsible for planning and implementing programs, more or less autonomously on a regional level.

The Rev. Mr. Jackson will head SCLC's midwest region which includes Chicago and Illinois. He will continue to hold his present post as national director of Operation Breadbasket.

Rev. Abernathy said the appointment of National vice-presidents will result in a restructuring of the SCLC. "We are decentralizing SCLC's authority and power so we can do a more creative job throughout the nation," he said. Until now the organization has concentrated all of its efforts in one area or one city.

"By moving into a community and dramatizing some evil within it, we have been able to focus national attention on that community and as a result we rooted out the evil. But once we left a community little progress was made thereafter.

"By decentralizing the organization, the SCLC will be able to maintain a constant presence within an area to assure continued progress in the area of human rights."

Rev. Abernathy also announced that he plans to attend several national church meetings across the country this year to ask them to underwrite the cost of operating the SCLC. He said the organization, which is financially troubled, should be the social action division of the churches in this country.

People are smarter than computers.

Sure, computers are wizards with facts and figures. They can spell sarsaparilla. Tell you what's the capital of Afghanistan. And instantly figure out your income tax or how many triples Babe Ruth hit in 1928. But no computer can invent, build, operate and maintain itself. That takes people. Bright people.

And as RCA grows to a $4 billion a year business, talented people grow with us. "If you think clearly, you can work with computers," says Mr. Murrel Freeman, Manager of RCA's Los Angeles Computer Center. "The opportunity is there." Murrel, who is only 28 years old, joined RCA eight years ago. He's helped us build our L.A. Center from the ground up. Now this five-story center houses three of the 83 computers in RCA's worldwide management information system. "We handle all computer processing for RCA's west coast divisions," Murrel says. "We also help other companies with their management information requirements," Murrel explains. "We analyze their management problems and data processing needs. And provide computer equipment and programs, or custom-design special systems." Right now, Murrel supervises thirty computer specialists. They are tape librarians, key punch operators, programmers, computer operators. They are people. People smarter than computers.

Health booklet explores lung cancer, smoking

Persons who have smoked cigarettes heavily over long periods of time can benefit by quitting and eventually reach almost the same level of safety as those who have never smoked at all.

This is the hopeful message in the Public Health Service's new leaflet, "Smoking and Lung Cancer," which indicts cigarette smoking as the major cause of lung cancer.

"Lung cancer," the leaflet states, "was a rare disease 50 years ago but is now the most common cause of death from cancer among American men and an increasingly common cause of death from cancer among women. In all, an estimated 49,000 men and 10,000 women die of this disease each year."

"The death rate from lung cancer for men who are heavy smokers—smoke more than two packs a day—is over 200 per 100,000 which is 15 to 20 times greater than for men who do not smoke."

Warning that the only cure for lung cancer is surgical removal of the tumor, and that only 7 to 10 percent survive more than five years after treatment, the leaflet concludes that "it is perfectly obvious that the best way to reduce one's chances of developing lung cancer is to give up smoking."

The leaflet was produced by the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health in cooperation with the Cancer Control Program, units of the Health Services and Mental Administration in the Public Health Service.

For single copies write to "Lung Cancer," National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health, Rockville, Maryland 20852. Quantities may be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

In addition to its long-standing responsibility for affirmative action to promote better human relations in the community.

Acting on the motion of commissioners John Burkhardt III and James Petrow, the commission authorized formation of a 7-member steering committee to be composed of the three officers plus four other members of the commission. Named tentatively by Chairman Wood are Rev. Joseph Wade, 950 Prospect St., Merrill Cohen, 6930 Oak Lane, Leonard Thornton, 626 East 25th St., and Nola Allen 3318 North Arsenal.

SBA contracts to minority firms near $28 million

The Small Business Administration has awarded nearly $28 million in federal subcontracts to minority-owned small business firms, the agency announced this month.

SBA Administrator Hilary Sandoval, Jr., said the awards were made through the agency's Business Development Program, kicked-off last June.

They called for such items as high-protein macaroni, window washing, plumbing and construction. All have been awarded to minority-owned small firms—those disadvantaged groups with the management and production know-how.

Through SBA's Business Development Program, the agency takes the role of prime contractor for federal buying agencies.

As prime contractor, SBA subcontracts to capable minority owned small firms unlikely or unable to bid on government contracts.

The awards range in size from a $2.9 million sub-contract to a California firm for tents to a $750 sub-contract for washing windows of the U.S. Post Office and Court House in Atlanta, Ga.

Active on the community level civic affairs and as a ward chairman under four different county chairmen, Page understands the problems of the working man and enjoys the friendship of a very wide circle of neighbors. He has extended an appeal for their support. His Ballot No. is 41-L.

A Child Is Waiting For You?

'Homes Now' a slogan advanced by Mrs. Fredrick H. Evans, wife of an Indianapolis physician, and a member of the Board of Directors, St. Elizabeth Home and Orphanage, urges the adoption of one of several children now at the home.

The home is for 'real', Mrs. Evans said, and it could be seen that all the children black or white was handled with 'tender loving care.'

It was no dressed rehearsal. The chief executive of the home, Miss Mary Louise Eluere, a very knowledgeable person, knows the background of each of the children.

Miss Eluere and staff stand ready to handle the details involved and will give all assistance necessary until adoption.

Six children varying in ages from three months to one year are up for adoption in homes of Indianapolis citizens. All are normal, healthy Mrs. Mary Biehle, head nurse at the institution, said.

These kids need the love of adoptive parents, and the love they return will more than compensate, Mrs. Eluere believes.

Former regulations have been relaxed and single women now are permitted to adopt children. People for all faiths are welcome.

St. Elizabeth's invites applications from couples having two, three or more children, natural or adopted. The only limit to the size of the family is that the parents have the capacity to care for and financially support the family. A large income or home ownership is not necessary to provide a secure home for the child.

Hints For Homemakers
INEZ KAIZER
This is the month when I do my spring cleaning. So, this past Saturday I thought it would be fun to invite my eleven-year-old niece over to spend the day and give her some homemaking know-how.
We had a very enjoyable and busy day that started off with doing the laundry. I felt that it wouldn't hurt her to get a little experience in doing a wash the right way.
After we finished sorting the clothes, I asked her to get the package of "all" detergent from the cabinet. "Is there some special reason you use 'all'?" she asked.
"Yes," I replied, "some very special reasons. You see, 'all' has bleach, borax and brighteners in it and it makes the laundry clean and fresh smelling. The white clothes get snow-white and the colors are always bright. But, the main reason I like 'all' best is because it is low-sudsing."
"What's so important about that?" she asked.
"Low sudsing allows your wash freer movement which gets it cleaner. And it protects the washing machine, too." "Gee, I wonder if my mother knows that," she said, grinning.
"Let's go fix something to eat while the clothes are washing," I said. "I'm starving." So up to the kitchen we went to see what we could find. "Is it too late for us to have pancakes?" asked my niece, who isn't at all bashful. "I just love pancakes."
"I don't think so," I replied, and started to get out the necessary items. My niece took some SOF-SPREAD IMPERIAL margarine out of the refrigerator and said, "I'll let this set out to get soft while the pancakes are cooking."
"That won't be necessary," I told her. You never have to let SOF-SPREAD IMPERIAL set, because it's always soft and ready to use, right from the refrigerator. Notice how nice and smooth it is—with just the right firmness? I also buy IMPERIAL for its superior flavor and because it can help cut down saturated fat in the diet. But you're a little young to worry about that."
"I know I like a lot of IMPERIAL on my pancakes," my niece said, then started to laugh. "I'm just wondering if I'll get a crown on my head from eating this SOF-SPREAD IMPERIAL like the people do on TV."
"Oh, you," I said, "go wash your hands while I finish the pancakes."

When my niece returned she asked, "What kind of soap do you use?"
"LIFEBUOY," I replied, "why do you ask?"
"It smells so good, I just wanted to know so I can ask mother to buy some."
"Your Uncle Richard enjoys mint refresher LIFEBUOY, too," I said. "I never thought I'd see the day when he would tell me how refreshed he feels after a LIFEBUOY bath."
"I can't imagine that," she said. "Does Ricky like LIFEBUOY, too?"
"Yes, at last I've found a soap that the whole family likes and can use. It's good for my skin and yet it has a lasting deodorant protection for the two men in my life."
My niece wanted to see for herself. "I think I'll take a bath before I leave, just to make sure I like it," she said.
Needless to say, she didn't find it hard to convince herself about the wonders of LIFEBUOY and its mint refresher.
Later, while we were eating lunch, she looked at me slyly and said, "I'll flip coins with you to see who does the dishes."
"OK," I replied, "but, I don't mind doing the dishes because I use LUX LIQUID."
Mockingly, my niece went on, "Well, I do. Dishwashing makes my hands feel dry and rough!"
"I'll tell you what," I said. "I'll bet that I can even make you enjoy doing the dishes. LUX LIQUID is so gentle to my hands and it makes dishwashing so easy that I could wash dishes all day."
"I don't believe that," she said, "prove it!"
"Just wash one or two things with LUX, then tell me what you think," I said.
Before she knew it, my niece had finished washing our few dishes. "Hey, I have a funny feeling that I got tricked. That really was fun doing dishes with LUX LIQUID, and those suds feel so nice. But I'm not sure I want to make it a habit." She looked at me and we both had a good laugh.
"Well," I sighed, "we had better go check the laundry. It's time to put in another load."
"OK," she said, "but the next time I come to visit with you, I'm going to come on a Sunday so there won't be so much work to do."
"Alright," I replied, "it's a deal. The next time you come to visit, let's go shopping." Little did my niece realize that, "Man may work from sun to sun, but woman's work is never done."

GIFT FOR GRAMBLING: A painting of Willis Reed (left) is being discussed by the artist, Fay Moore, and Alvin Cooper, Madison Square Garden executive, who presented it last week to Grambling College. The painting is from Miss Moore's exhibition, which will run at the Garden's sports museum until May 31. Reed, all-star player for the New York Knicks, played his college ball at Grambling.

Central State All-America to try out for USA squad

WILBERFORCE, OHIO -- Robert Moore, Central State's All-America guard from Gary, Ind., has been selected to try out for the United States team that will compete for the World Basketball Championship May 10-13 at three different sites in Yugoslavia.

The World Championships will draw teams from Australia, Brazil, Canada, the Soviet Union, South Korea, Italy, Uruguay, Africa, and Panama.

Main tournament action is expected to center around the tournament site at Sarajevo, the historic capital of Yugoslavia, with other game sites listed at Split and Karlovac. Moore was chosen after scouts for the USA team watched him in action during the NAIA basketball tournament this spring in Kansas City. He averaged 17 points a game and provided superb floor play as the Marauders won their way into the third round before losing.

The wonderful world of SPORTS

Madison's Robert Brooks is Ky's 'Mr. Basketball'

LOUISVILLE -- Robert Brooks, 6-foot-4 forward for state tourney runnerup Richmond Madison, has been chosen to wear the No. 1 jersey as Kentucky's "Mr. Basketball," when the all-stars battle an Indiana team in two benefit games this June.

Brooks led his team to the state final game against champion Louisville Male, scoring 32 points and grabbing 15 rebounds in the 70-69 set back.

He scored 128 points in four tourney games. He also set a 47-point state tourney record against Breathitt Co. in the quarterfinals while enroute to a 27-point per game scoring average.

Robert Graves, coach of Louisville Central and who will coach the All-Stars, had nothing but nice things to say about the lad who will lead the Kentucky stars.

"Brooks deserves the honor," he said. "He can play any position, he led his team to the state finals and people have lots of confidence in him."

Last year, Indiana won both games to increase its lead in the rivalry to 26-17.

"It looks like Indiana is going to have a good big boy again, just like last year," Graves said. He was referring to 6-foot-8 Jim Bradley, star of East Chicago Roosevelt's state champions. Bradley was one of four more men named to the Indiana squad Sunday.

Comparing Bradley with Indiana's 1969 All-Stars, 6-foot-7 George McGinnis and 6-foot-9 Steve Downing, Graves said:

"Bradley might not be as physically strong as McGinnis or Downing, but he looked very agile to me and he handled the ball real well. You don't often find that in a big man." Graves saw Roosevelt play Carmel in the Hoosier final on television.

The first all star game will be played here Saturday, June 20 at Freedom Hall. There'll be a rematch on June 27 at Indianapolis.

The St. Rita's Boxing Club of Indianapolis split eight bouts last weekend in a boxing show at Auburn with host Auburn Boxing Club.

Michael Howard, lightweight in the open division, decisioned James Knox of Muncie to open the show.

Bradley, Kendrick, Roberson named to Hoosier All-Stars

Three black high school basketball standouts, one a local athlete, were among five players named to the Indiana All-Star team announced Saturday.

The three were Frank Kendrick, 6-foot-5 forward named Saturday. Bradley scored 20.9 per game this season for 28-0 Roosevelt. He started three seasons for the Rough Riders and the team was 72-3 during that span.

He lost a tight vote line while leading his team in rebounding. Roberson shattered virtually every Elkhart scoring record, averaging 25.2 points a game his senior year with a high of 51 points.

to Shepherd in the Mr. Basketball balloting. Bradley shot .552 from the field while scoring 586 points for the state champs. He averaged nearly 15 rebounds per contest for Coach Bill Holzbach's powerhouse.

Kendrick needs no introduction to local fans. He established two new records at Arsenal Technical with a season high of 682 points and a single game high of 43.

Kendrick almost single-handedly cut down favored Shortridge in the Indianapolis Sectional as he brought the Titans from 20 points back and certain defeat with a 35-point performance, 31 points in the second half.

He shot 535 from the field and .805 from the free throw Mousa led Seymour to its first unbeaten regular season. He average 19 points and 15 rebounds a game for coach Barney Scott's team, which was upset by Logansport in the Evansville Semistate.

Negro fund rejects Players' golf offer

AUGUSTA, GA. -- Because of South Africa's racial separation policy, the United Negro College Fund has decided against accepting Gary Player's offer to play exhibition matches with American Negro golfers for the benefit of the fund. The decision was announced last week by Vernon Jordan, executive director of the fund.

"There's no reflection on Mr. Player himself for the sincerity of his offer, but when symbol and act are so closely related the U.N.C.F. cannot in justice to our students, our institution or our supporters appear or countenance the blatant racist policies of South Africa," a statement by the fund said.

Upon his arrival March 9 to play in five United States tournaments, including the Masters, Player said he had "deplored" his country's refusal to grant Arthur Ashe, American Negro tennis star, a visa to compete in the South African tennis championship. Player said he had also spoken out against barring Papwa Sewgolum, a noted nonwhite golfer, from the South African open.

Since then his business manager, Mark McCormack, has been seeking support of the U.N.C.F. for the project of

Bowling with Willa Murrell

Helen Redmon led the women in the Circle City League last week with a 569. Joella Mitchell had 551, Lillie Linthorne, 543; Elizabeth Stanfield, 521; Marcella Folsom, 513; Florine Harrington, 504, and Frances Rivers, 501.

I'm sorry I missed putting in last week's paper the scores of Mary Moore, who bowls in the Thursday Nite Ladies League at Fun Bowl. She had two 500 scores-- 527 and 504. There are no reported 600's from the men this week.

Next week will be my last writeup in the paper for the season. I want to express my deepest appreciation to The Recorder for the weekly writeups of the bowling scores. I hope we'll be able to have another column next season.

Desegregation— Policy and practice

Four weeks have passed since the President issued his compendious statement on school desegregation, and it is a tribute to the complexity of that statement—or to its ambiguity, depending on your view—that the experts in the field are unable to agree on what it said. By "experts" we do not mean those civil rights groups and their lawyers who are active participants in the litigation, but rather men like Professors James Coleman (the sociologist) and Alexander Bickel (the legal scholar) whose expertise was fed into the presidential statement, as well as the members of the Civil Rights Commission who took a 27-page-long dim view of it in a statement of their own the other day.

A good part of the conflict rests on the significance of the sharp distinction Mr. Nixon made between de jure and de facto segregation. Professor Bickel, though he expressed some qualms about the criteria of "good faith" and the "rule of reason" as Mr. Nixon meant to apply them in school cases, interpreted the de jure-de facto distinction in the context of the Stennis amendment and similar recent mischief. "There can be no further administration support of, or neutrality toward, any Stennis amendment or any freedom-of-choice amendment," he wrote in The New Republic. Likewise, he implied that segregationists would no longer find it so easy to "throw doubt on the whole process of desegregation" by capitalizing on the confusion "between segregation and racial imbalance." So Professor Bickel saw in this firm distinction a foil to Stennis-like plans to make desegregation of dual school systems contingent upon the rearrangement of racial composition in the schools elsewhere.

Professor Coleman has taken a quite different view, stressing the fact that the President went so far in his distinction as possibly to have come out where Senator Stennis and his colleagues were headed in the first place—before the Senate-House conferees managed to cut them off at the pass. That is, he sees considerable and ominous meaning in the President's carrying of the distinction between legal and illegal segregation right into the various elements underlying the situation in a single district in the South. Mr. Nixon had said that only de jure aspects of segregation would be the object of federal pressure in a particular district, having somehow been isolated from the rest. In a letter to The New York Times, Professor Coleman characterized this as "a backward step in enforcement of desegregation in dual systems of the South." He explained:

... first, in a system with a history of legal racial separation, it is not possible to distinguish de facto from de jure segregation ... second, recent court decisions have begun to regard Northern de facto segregation as illegal under the 14th Amendment ... A more far-reaching policy would have anticipated the extension to the North of enforcement now being applied in the South rather than limit enforcement in the South to current patterns in the North.

It is interesting to note here that Professor Coleman saw this point as the principal fault in the President's statement and hailed as its principal virtue the President's decision to "commit resources to the goal of effective and stable racial integration in public schools." ("I strongly applaud this, just as strongly as I oppose the other half of the message.") Professor Bickel, for his part, reads the statement as "realistic and sensible" largely because he perceives in it the opposite: an acknowledgment that "integration, as distinguished from desegregation ... is not in law, and should not be the first priority."

At this point we should observe that the Civil Rights Commission is nearer Professor Coleman than Professor Bickel in its interpretation of the document, although it requests a little clarification from the President as to whether the funds he means to dispense will in fact be used in the furtherance of integration (as Professor Coleman supposes) and it also takes a much "farther out" view of the de jure-de facto distinction, asserting some law that Mr. Nixon left out of his legal history in behalf of the position that what we regard as de facto segregation is as harmful as the officially imposed kind and in any event is usually another manifestation of it.

We will not for the moment expatiate on the merits or demerits of what these various analysts—all highly distinguished professionals—favor by way of federal policy on race toward the schools. But we will infer from their variant readings of the text that Mr. Nixon's statement can only be parsed by observation of his administration's actions in the field. In both the Manatee County, Florida, and Charlotte-Mecklenburg (North Carolina) cases, the Justice Department, since Mr. Nixon's statement, has submitted amicus curiae memoranda wondering whether U.S. judges who imposed far-reaching desegregation plans on formerly de jure segregated school systems had not "invoked a remedy so extreme as to constitute an abuse of discretion." The administration having pretty well dismantled the HEW compliance program, in other words, is now making more explicit—via Justice—its view that lesser constitutional minimums should be accepted in Southern districts than many federal courts were already requiring, supporting as a standard for those districts what would look reasonable in a Northern context. There is much of this drama yet to unfold, but we suspect that in the matter of the de jure-de facto connection and its significance for the South, Professor Coleman is on to something.

Slum and Pollution

April 22 was set aside as "Earth Day." That was the day when the college campuses, civic organizations, and concerned citizens spotlight the problems of our environment.

What this environmental revolution is really about is the quality of life: How we can co-exist with other creatures on God's earth, and how we can use nature's gifts to benefit man without destroying the delicate balance on which life depends.

We must be concerned about air pollution from auto exhausts and from factory smokestacks. But we must also be concerned with the far more insidious pollution of poverty that poisons the lives of 30 million Americans.

We should be concerned about chemical deposits in the food we eat, but also about the millions of Americans who go hungry; whose diets are perched on the thin line of malnutrition.

I get the uneasy feeling that some people who have suddenly discovered the pollution issue embrace it because its basic concern is improving middle-class life. But environmentalists who are really concerned with humane values also spend their energies on the more urgent environmental problems of slum housing and joblessness. These are the real pollutants of urban life.

People who live in the suburbs are concerned with clean air and water. But if their town is segregated, if it bars blacks from buying homes, or has zoning laws that keep low-income people out, it is polluted in a far graver sense.

The social ecology of society is the delicate balance between the rich and the poor, whites and blacks. If the relationship between men and fishes has come to be such an important topic, then surely the relationship between blacks and whites is even more pressing.

Occasionally someone will say: "Well, blacks live in cities and suffer from polluted air, too." Air pollution isn't such a hot topic in the ghetto today. The pollution of racism and poverty is a bit more relevant.

I hope the current environmental campaign succeeds in helping to clean up the air and the waters. But I wonder if the hoopla about pollution will become just another fad, another fad, another way the restless energies of bright young people may be diverted from the gut issues our society faces.

The black man's fair-weather friends marched on Washington, conducted campus talk-ins, and did other things to demonstrate white support for civil rights. Where are they now? Many have simply turned to other issues.

At a time when the national mood is turning to repression and indifference to the rights of black people, it is more important than ever for whites to speak up. Some abandoned the rights movement for the anti-war thrust. Then they split that to fight for campus democracy. Now some people are uptight about air and water. Many are asking: "What's next year's fad going to be?"

When those concerned whites who have copped out once again close ranks with the civil rights movement, we'll finally secure an open society — the very kind of society that won't get bogged down in Asian wars or pollute its environment. The battle is here, today, in our cities, and it won't be won until people enlist for the duration.

The choice isn't between the physical environment and the human. Both go hand in hand, and the widespread concern with pollution must be joined by a similar concern for wiping out the pollutants of racism and poverty.

by ANDREW W. RAMSEY

The Church tries to find its soul

In most circles the church is sacrosanct and of it, like the proverbial dead, nothing but good is said. But in recent years with so many of the older systems being challenged, the church has been hard put to maintain some sort of leadership in a confused world.

The church, which has long contended that it held the key to the good life, has in the past few decades given lip service to its basic tenet of the brotherhood of man and denomination after denomination have within their conventions passed some of the most pious resolutions regarding the various schisms which have divided humanity.

In the earlier years of this century the church went along with the racial separatism which as becoming the American way of life and which had been the church's way of dealing with the phenomenon of race and color for all of the previous century.

During the Nineteenth Century black America had been forced in the main to organize its own denominations because the white church rejected in practice the brotherhood which it proclaimed from the pulpit. Many of the established white denominations took a patronizing attitude toward their black brothers and set up separate worship facilities for them and shepherded them until they were able to go it alone.

Prominent among these were the Methodists, the Presbyterians, the Episcopalians and the Christians Disciples of Christ. Until recent years all of them listed in their books their Negro congregations as such and the Negro ministers were indicated either by an asterisk or by such abbreviations as N. or Col.

With the coming of the period of black enlightenment in the Thirties, slowly these white church bodies became ashamed of the fact that such visible evidence of their rejection of universal brotherhood and began a program of issuing resolutions condemning racial segregation in secular institutions. As the Forties approached the pronouncements against gross racism included the church itself but nothing in them seemingly demanded action on the parish level.

The Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) which was organized in the first decade last century to abolish denominationalism was one of the churches to develop a black appendage but not too many congregations. Shortly after its founding the denomination came to Indiana and to Indianapolis. Its first congregation had a few blacks but the good white Christians decided to find a place where the black could "do their own thing". A mission was started which became Second Christian Church. The guardian angel of the new black congregation was the Chairman of the Board of Central Christian Church Prof. A.C. Shortridge, who was also Superintendent of the Indianapolis Public Schools and Principal of the High School which today bears his name.

Due to Prof. Shortridge the first public school for blacks was opened in the new black church. Periodically the Second Christian Church holds celebrations to honor its founders and to express gratitude to the Central Christian Church, which it regards as its mother church. Maybe that should be changed to state that formerly happened. In recent years they have been members and officers who regard the founding of the congregation over a century ago as a racist act.

At present, Second Christian Church with a membership of nearly one thousand, all of which were blacks until recently, participates in all of the organized bodies of the denomination and has three members on the national board, has been increasingly critical of the brotherhood of its sister white congregations and points out that in Indiana it has fully ninety-five percent of the black membership of the denomination in spite of the fact the probably the most eloquently stated pronouncement against racism have come from the gatherings of the denomination.

The liberal, the conservative and the reactionary elements of the Indiana Assembly of the Disciples were stunned into silence last week, when the Rev. Thomas Benjamin, Pastor of Second Church, posed the threat of a withdrawal of his congregation from the official bodies of the church unless a real change in practice on brotherhood levels was forthcoming in the very near future and the black delegates from the church applauded his statement.

In religion as well as in other facets of American life the Negro is tired of tokenism. Most do not subscribe to separatism but are unable to bring about the togetherness that America is supposedly committed to.

Poitier plays a teacher in a London slum school and Miss Geeson appears as one of his students.

"In The Heat of The Night" and "To Sir, With Love"

With an Academy Award, 23 pictures and four hit plays under his belt, Sidney Poitier has definite opinions about his craft and its practitioners. One which may not make him too popular is that most actors are emotionally immature.

If they behave like children, they certainly turn out some adult entertainment, however, and his latest film, the Mirisch Corporation production "In The Heat of the Night" which won the Best Picture Award proves this point. Opening in color by Deluxe, Saturday for 3 days at the Walker Theatre, the crime drama co-starring Rod Steiger is a powerful indictment of present day morals and mores—with assorted violence, crime and murder thrown in.

Why does he think actors are immature? Because, he insists, only someone who can lose himself in the make-believe world of "let's pretend" can convince an audience that he is what he appears to be. And this ability to function in a milieu of imagination is usually lost around the age of eight!

"Any actor who is any good at all is still a kid at heart," Poitier says. "Any actor who can't daydream can't cut it."

Some time ago, in "The Blackboard Jungle," Sidney Poitier played a high school student whose New York slum environment had made him rebellious, tough and unruly; now, at the . . . Theatre, Poitier plays a high school teacher in a tough London environment whose students are rebellious, tough and unruly. The film is James Clavell's production of "To Sir, With Love," a Columbia Pictures release in Technicolor.

Between these roles as student and as teacher, Poitier has moved to the very front rank of the world's film stars. He won his first acting award at the Venice Film Festival with his performance in "Something of Value." "The Defiant Ones" earned him the coveted best actor award at the Sun. "A Raisin in the Sun" gained him the Broadway Critics' Circle Drama Award, and he subsequently starred in a memorable filmization of the play. "Lilies of the Field" won Poitier the Academy Award as best actor.

"To Sir, With Love" reportedly is a warm, human and ingratiating screen version of a book by E.R. Braithwaite, a young Guyanese physicist who, after service in World War II as an R.A.F. fighter pilot, took a job as a teacher. "To Sir, With Love," is the story of his initial contacts with "problem" youngsters nearing adulthood.

COMING TO WALKER: Antony Zerbe strikes American screen newcomer Lola Falana in this scene from the William Wyler film, "The Liberation of L. B. Jones." Columbia release in color. Zerbe plays a small southern town police officer in the film; Miss Falana his mistress. Also starred are Lee J. Cobb, Roscoe Lee Brown, Lee Majors, Barbara Hershey, Yaphet Kotto and Chill Wills. Some of his best friends were black and some of her best friends were white. For further information call the Walker theater.

'The Liberation of L.B. Jones' inter-racial pix coming soon

A William Wyler film, "The Liberation of L. B. Jones," Columbia Pictures release in color, will be the next attraction at the Walker Theatre starting . . . Starring Lee J. Cobb, Anthony Zerbe, Roscoe Lee Brown, Lee Majors, Barbara Hershey, Yaphet Kotto and Chill Wills and introducing Lola Falana, "The Liberation of L. B.

Jones" was directed by William Wyler and produced by Ronald Lubin. The drama, written for the screen by Stirling Silliphant and Jesse Hill Ford, is based on the Ford novel. Robert Surtees was director of photography and Elmer Bernstein wrote the music for the William Wyler - Ronald Lubin production.

Stax launches Respect Label

MEMPHIS - Al Bell, executive vice president of Stax Records, announced today the formation of RESPECT Records, a major subsidiary label. Primarily a spoken word vehicle, RESPECT will be releasing albums by Rev. Jesse Jackson and other national figures.

Rev. Jesse Jackson, dynamic 27-year-old national director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference's Operation Breadbasket, will record a series of albums under the running title "The Country Preacher." First of the series, "I Am Somebody," will be the initial Respect release.

Jackson has been described as "probably the most persuasive black leader on the national scene (N.Y. Times)" and "both a man of God and a shrewd . . . political fighter (Life Magazine)." "He combines his down-home style with a sharp intellect," reported Harper's.

"I Am Somebody" was recorded at several Saturday morning meetings of Operation Breadbasket in Chicago where Jackson speaks each week. Describing one meeting, Playboy wrote "For over an hour, he (Jackson) delivered a passionate sermon that described the black man's plight in white society. It was filled with street talk, down-home slang and quotations from the Bible - but its effect was Greek tragedy with soul."

"We are attempting to document with recordings outstanding black people in all fields. We want to preserve history on wax so that young people will be able to hear and feel the words, rather than just read them and not understand the man who uttered them," said Bell.

In addition to normal record industry channels of distribution, RESPECT will be directed toward school systems, churches and other public outlets. A specialized advertising, merchandising and public relations program will be directed by Larry Shaw, newly-appointed advertising and creative director.

The logo for RESPECT records, designed by Larry Shaw, features the line "Tell It Like It Is," which is also the label's operational policy.

SIGNS WITH NETS: Jim Ard of the University of Cincinnati has signed a four-year $400,000 contract to play with the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association. He was the No. 3 choice of the Nets and the No. 1 draft choice of the Seattle Super Sonics of the NBA.

GUESS WHAT? Mini skirts are going --- GONE! And you know who's glad --- ME! So many of the girls I see look downright awful. I have never seen where mini skirts improved the looks of any female . . . young or old . . . according to my theory the more you see of a female the less desire you have . . . or am I just beating up my chops . . . or may be I'm just too doggone old-fashioned. Could that be it?

BELIEVE IT OR NOT . . . There are only 120 Negro attorneys in the state of Pennsylvania . . . 110 of them in Philadelphia and about 10 in Pittsburgh, New York has 2,000 while Illinois has more than 1,500.

HAVE you sent your contribution to the Mayor Evers Fund, Inc. 150 East 52nd St. New York, New York 10022. . . Charles J. Swiftly Howard and Robert M. Jeter received their signed receipt for a donation sent several weeks back. Remember, contributions are deductible. . . Why not help make Fayette, Miss. one of the most beautiful cities in America. It's up to you and you . . . because the whites aren't helping at all in Miss. . . Send your dollar or two or five or ten Today.

BLACK BREWERY - A Negro group in Milwaukee will soon close the deal to buy the Peoples Brewing Company in Oshkosh, Wis., thus becoming the first black owned (how I hate that word first) brewery in the nation, according to a news story in The Greater Milwaukee Star. The brewery has an annual capacity of 50,000 barrels of beer and the asking price is reported at $500,000.

CONGRESSMAN? Some of our people should get their facts and figures straight before making statement on TV. . . such as we can elect a Negro congressman here? How? If all black voters voted (11th District) he wouldn't get any place. He's got to get other votes. . . and don't you forget it! This talk about Negro candidates being 100 percent for black or else, is pure hog wash. How do you think you got two (2) Negro superior court judges? How do you think Stokes got to be mayor in Cleveland or Hatcher in Gary or the black mayor in Chapel Hill, N.C. Or the mayor (Henry) of Springfield, Ohio. . . or the just recently named mayor of Wichita, Kan. (A. Price Woodward, 51) making it the third largest in the country with a black man at the head of its government. Since these people got into office with the help of the white man how can you expect them to put the gray boys down altogether. Negroes are smarter now and know how to wheel and deal with the boys downtown. . . And there's no other way to do it here in Indianapolis. Where were these smart boys when they were busy changing the boundary lines in the 11th district. Do they know that the large number of Negroes living in Washington Township can't vote in the 11th. . . neither can those blacks living in parts of Wayne and Warren Townships. Where were the smart boys when they put Washington Township in the 6th district? At the rate they are tearing down houses and moving blacks out of Center Township you can't hardly elect a Negro as dogcatcher. . . And you had better believe it!

YOU MUST remember that Detroit, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Missouri and Pennsylvania Negroes forced the political bosses to form boundaries around solid masses of Negroes, thereby assuring them of a Negro congressman. We didn't do that here. . . so in order to elect a black congressman you have got to see that the boundary lines are changed. It takes money to run an election campaign, and the guys who put up the do-re-me will call the shots. . . let him be white or black. Noblack elected official in Marion County can ignore the white votes. . . not if he wants to be Re-Elected. Because all blacks aren't going to Vote for a man just because he's black. But don't expect anymore from him than you do from the white elected official. And remember, majority of blacks Vote the Democratic ticket. . . So when a Republican black candidate gets elected to office it's because of the white vote and those few blacks who crossed over just because he is black. Asking and demanding that blacks be 100 per cent black when they get into office is just too much.

GOOD NEWS. . . Stokely Carmichael, once the defiant prince of black power, has returned to America, and immediately called for a revolution to rid the black community of drugs. (His 13-year nephew has been hospitalized by heroin), according to a piece in The Oklahoma Eagle credited to Jet Mag. (Note: He should hurry to Naptown where dope is flowing like water. . . and that easy to get.)

WHAT certain parts of this man's town needs (and badly) more walking patrolmen. . . and especially along certain blocks of the Avenue, where black men, white men, old men, young men are being robbed, . . . mugged. . . strong-armed and beaten during the day and night. . . and that's putting it mildly. White people are afraid to come to the Avenue for good old soul food and southern barbecue ribs and red hot entertainment. Just recently, an ofay was beaten after he left a popular barbecue on the stem by a bunch of young hood.

SADDED-- Our heart and mind were a little saddened when we heard that our good friend's (Opal Tandy) newspaper office had been burglarized and two typewriters and varityper with an estimated valuation of $6,000. It is our fervent hope that the thieves will be caught and the merchandise recovered. Black newspaper's have a hard enough field to plow, and losing its working equipment can be downright painful.

WE ALSO were saddened to hear that our friend Jim Cummings is cutting out from his $25,000 a year post with B.F.E. The fellow evidently knows what he's doing and has something good going for him. At least we hope so.

A GOOD DEAL -- They couldn't have named a more dedicated and enterprising person than S. Henry Bundles as president of the Indianapolis Business Development Foundation. . . and already

Jay Jay Johnson, Hometown Boy, rated one of the nation's top trombonists

BY BOB WOMACK SR.

Jay Jay Johnson, one of the most outstanding trombonists on the modern-day jazz scene was born and reared here in the capital city. He attended Attucks High School from 1937-1941. During that time, he studied music and was a member of both the Concert orchestra and the marching band under the direction of the now famous Norman L. Merrifield, maker of many top local musicians.

After graduation, Johnson made his first professional musical debut with the Lavin Kemp orchestra then, the "Rage of Naptown." In this aggregation, the "boy wonder" of the trombone became famous locally and was in great demand for his horn playing and arranging ability. During the early 1940's, the internationally known band-leader Benny Carter and his orchestra with vocalist Savannah Churchill were appearing nightly at the Sunset Terrace Ballroom here.

At that time, Carter was in the market for a trombone player. He dug Jay Jay and was very impressed with his playing ability and hired him. He accompanied the orchestra to the Swing Club in Hollywood, Calif. According to jazz critic Barry Ulanov-

JAY JAY JOHNSON

"The Carter band is probably the best that Benny ever led, soothing and exciting musically." "And something new has been added. This group really jumps!" Later, Johnson continued up the ladder of musical success by becoming a featured sideman with many of the top named crews over the country. Including: Count Basie; Dizzy Gillespie; Oscar Pettiford; Illinois Jacquet; Miles Davis and others. For awhile Jay had his own all-star combo. He has also appeared in many record sessions.

In June 3, 1967, he received the Crispus Attucks High School Distinguished Alumnus Citation during Vesper Ceremonies in the school gymnasium.

Jay Jay Johnson is generally acknowledged to be the foremost jazz trombonist of Our Time, and has led the popular International Jazz Polls including Paris for the past several years. Currently, Johnson is president of MBC Music, Inc., of New York City.

He is the first "Soul" brother to head a bigtime music production company, producing radio and television sound tracks exclusively. In recent years, Jay has been a composer, arranger and conductor for MBA.

Berry Gordy Jr. and Sammy Davis Jr. create multi-million music complex

LOS ANGELES, CALIF., APRIL 10--Motown President Berry Gordy Jr. and Sammy Davis Jr. last Thursday announced the formation of a recording and music publishing development which they described as the creation of a new music industry complex.

In essence, the announcement establishes the landmark entertainment association of the world's most successful independent record company and the world's greatest entertainer.

The multi-million dollar Gordy-Davis music industry complex includes the formation of Ecology Records, a new company and two new music publishing companies, Ecology Music Company, a BMI affiliate and Synergy Music Company, an ASCAP affiliate.

Mr. Gordy will serve as chairman, Davis as president. Ewart Abner, Jr. and Sy March, a long-time business partner of Mr. Davis', as vice-presidents.

The Motown Record Corporation will handle world-wide distribution of the new Ecology Record label. Jobet Music Company, Motown music publishing arm, will be the world-wide administrators for the copyright of the two new publishing companies.

Mr. Gordy, in a news conference held at the Los Angeles Ambassador Hotel, said that Mr. Davis would supervise the artistic and endeavors for all artists performing under the Ecology label.

Gordy and Davis plan to expand into production of television shows, motion pictures, legitimate theatre and one-act plays.

Davis said he will be looking for "everything good" for the label, from Leonard Bernstein to funky blues. We want to cover the whole musical spectrum on the label, not just one type of sound," said Davis.

conducting matches in which Player would be competing with leading Negro American professionals, McCormack had hoped to include Charles Sifford, Lee Elder and Pete Sifford, Lee Elder and Pete Brown, who are prominent black golfers, to participate in these matches.

Although Player was subjected to harassment during the third round of the Professional Golfers Association championship last August in Dayton, Ohio, when ice and soft drink were thrown in his face, there have been no demonstrations or unpleasant incidents during his stay on the tour thus far.

He has played at Pensacola, Jacksonville, Miami and Greensboro, N. C. where he was the winner, and in each case he has had constant protection on and off the course.

Prior to the Masters Tournament, Clifford Roberts, tournament chairman, said, "We are up to our elbows in security as a regular thing." He added that local and state police and some FBI agents were on the grounds. Roberts also said that no one had gained a higher place with the American public than Player and he was entitled to everyone's respect. Before leaving by charter plane, Player said he was sorry his offer had not been accepted by the U.N.C.F. "I'm not bitter," he said. "One must always try to understand the other man's point of view. I tried. I'm sorry they didn't accept."

to Kentucky State, the eventual NAIA national champions. "I guess this tops off everything in my senior year," Moore said when informed of his selection. "Everything you work for sometimes comes your way, and with being named to the NAIA All-American team, and then getting picked fifth by both pro leagues, and now maybe making the USA national team--well, I sometimes wonder if I'm dreaming all this."

Earlier this month Moore was named to the Ohio College All-Star team for two-game series against the Indiana College All-Stars.

He scored 11 points as Ohio won the first contest Friday night in a 123-111 route of the Hoosiers, and 10 points Saturday night as the Hoosiers won, 109-106.

Moore scored almost 1,700 points as a four-year Central State starter and had an excellent NAIA tournament in 1968 when the Marauders captured the title. This season he led Central State to a 25-5 record averaging 15 points a game.

In Moore's last three seasons, the Marauders compiled a 75-15 won-lost record.

Do you put a higher price on an Olds than we do?

Our own surveys indicate that quite a few people think an Olds costs a lot more than it really does. Result? Many people buy an ordinary car and end up with a lot less car and value for their money.

It's so unnecessary, too, because Oldsmobile has many models that are priced right down with so-called low-priced cars. See your Olds dealer. He'll prove that you're closer to Olds than you think.

Cutlass S: The sporty Olds—one of nine Olds models priced under $2995*—right down with a lot of low-priced names. But Cutlass really widens the value gap with standard features like these: Regular-gas Rocket V-8 □ Nylon-blend loop-pile carpeting □ Foam-padded seats □ Deluxe steering wheel □ Bias-belted tires □ Door side-guard beams □ Recessed windshield wipers □ Hidden radio antenna.

Groppi to leave slum parish; hopes to remain with blacks

MILWAUKEE-- The Rev. James E. Groppi is being reassigned from the slum parish that has been the center of civil rights activities for the last seven years.

The chancery office of the Milwaukee Roman Catholic Archdiocese announced this week that St. Boniface Church was being turned over to the Capuchin order and that a black priest would be the pastor.

Father Groppi, who is white, has been saying for some time that the church should have a black priest and his request has apparently been heeded by the chancery office.

The chancery office has not yet made Father Groppi's new assignment. The priest will be allowed to request another parish and he said in an interview that he had not made up his mind. "I'd prefer to remain in the black community," he said, "but there may be some greater need for a radical priest in a white community. I suppose no matter where I go there will be some little problems."

Father Groppi has been a member of a three-man pastoral team at St. Boniface but he has been the priest most closely identified with the activities centered there.

Following rallies in the church the priest let open housing demonstrations for 200 days in 1967 and 1968 until a local law was passed. He has also led numerous other civil rights programs there and made the parish the center of activism for the entire black community.

For a time, in fact, St. Boniface became an attraction for tourists and white Father Groppi recalled that he had sometimes been critical of the whites who overflowed the Sunday masses at St. Boniface and then returned to their suburban homes.

"But now I can understand their problems," he said. "They came from conservative parishes and were tired of their parish organizations, the Holy Name Society and that sort of nonsense."

Neither the Youth Council of the NAACP, for which Father Groppi was the advisor until 1968, nor the Commando group, which kept order in the demonstrations, is now active.

Father Groppi turned his attention to welfare mothers' demands last fall and was arrested when 1,000 demonstrators took over the Assembly chambers in the State Capitol.

His time since has been taken up in anti-war and civil rights lectures around the country and in the court action that resulted from the welfare demonstration.

Just this week a United States District Judge ruled that the Assembly was wrong in jailing the priest for contempt.

"Anti-busing" acclaimed at GOP leadership confab

Washington, D. C.--About 1,200 Republicans gathered here last week-end for the party's 1970 "leadership" conference applauded and cheered U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell. He told his audience that every citizen has "the right to reject unreasonable requirements of busing and to send their children to neighborhood schools."

Again he asserted this right is "just as important as the right of all of our citizens to assigned (to schools) without regard to their race."

Mr. Mitchell expressed hope that by the beginning of the new school year "this burning issue of school desegregation will be behind us and be laid to rest."

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Robert H. Finch was assailed by southern questioners as he spoke behind Mr. Mitchell.

Among other questions or charges, the HEW was charged with backing a desegregation center in Miami, Fla. that backs busing of students. A speaker from Caddo Parish, La. asked Mr. Finch for a clarification of GOP policies on civil rights. His parish is under a court order to desegregate public schools.

However, Mr. Mitchell told the members of his audience that "this administration has brought about more school desegregation than any other previous administration."

LAWRENCE JACKSON

Funeral services for Lawrence Jackson, age 63, 1273 Eugene, were held in the Stuart Mortuary Wednesday, April 15. He died Saturday, April 11, in General Hospital. He was employed 18 years by the Indiana Oxygen Company and retired in 1965.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Gladys Jackson and a stepson, the Rev. Raymond P. Floyd, pastor of Providence AME Church.

Epilepsy clinic to be addressed by Dr. Jos. Green

A meeting entitled, "Epilepsy, So What?" sponsored by the Marion County Assn. for Mental Health in cooperation with the Epilepsy Clinic, L. U., Medical Center will be held Wednesday, April 29 at 7:30 p.m., in North Methodist Church, 38th and Meridian St.

Dr. Joseph Green, director of the Epilepsy Clinic, will be the principal speaker. Others contributing to the program will include a vocational counselor, a psychologist and the parent of an epileptic child and a seizure patient.

A group is being formed, the first in Marion County for parents of epileptics, adult seizure patients and interested people of the community. Mrs. Connie Noble is program director of the Marion County Association for Mental Health.

Health in Action By Dr. Paul Cornely

A reader zeroed in on a real problem who complained that an average man willing to fight for better health services often has no idea where to begin.

There are various ways to go about organizing a program, but there are a number of basic steps that should be followed to insure success. A recent report suggests ways of doing this.

Three simple stages are a must: (1) collect information; (2) decide what is needed; and (3) design a system to meet these needs.

If you don't have an organization, form one, keeping in mind that federal grant money can go only to legal, nonprofit groups. Law schools or legal aid organizations can help you with this. An organization of this kind will assure your control of the program.

Get all the facts you can about your community, such as location, size, population, number of people per square mile; number of males, females, children, and aged; the racial breakdown, whether a growing or declining population, the marital status of adults, and the number of houses and their condition. Check on schools, sanitary services, the economic base of the community, working people, family incomes, equal job opportunities and access to work, the average amount each person spends for health care, and where health services come from.

You'll need vital statistics showing what diseases kill people or cause illness in the community, the number of abortions, the illegitimacy rates, etc.

It will be important to know how many health care people work in your community, the type of facilities and services available, and how people -- particularly the poor and ethnic groups -- are treated.

All of this must sound like a big job, but you will be surprised to learn that many studies, now gathering dust, have been done in most communities. All you need to is locate them. Next, find out what people in the community think about the health situation. Determine the history of cooperation involving health problems by local, county, state, federal public, and private organizations.

Every community needs certain basic health services and facilities available to all citizens regardless of their ability to pay. They also must be easy for all of the citizens to reach.

Remember, to get even this far, an organized group must take the lead. These may be composed of citizens, professional people, public or private agencies, medical societies, health organizations or hospitals.

After studying the community, come up with a plan for providing the necessary health services. This could be anything from a simple primary care unit, with a core of 3 or 4 professionals and 4 or 5 community health workers, to a comprehensive neighborhood health center of 40 to 60 persons. The federal and state governments have experts who can give you a great deal of help. Don't be afraid to ask them.

You are now ready to say who will provide various services and how they will be paid for. A contract is probably best for your doctors and dentists.

The next step is finding a building, deciding about how you'll get the money to operate (fees, grants, contributions, etc.), and establishing procedures for periodic evaluation of your services to the community. (The federal government can provide assistance in a number of these areas -- a matter not to be overlooked.)

Any interested reader should now have a fairly good idea of how to get the ball rolling in his community. The chances are your community's health needs are not being met.

Are you going to help? If you want additional information, please drop me a note at the Howard University Medical School, Washington, D.C. 20001 and I shall be happy to send you a copy of the report mentioned earlier.

'Black English'

Language workshop set for June at IU

BLOOMINGTON --A black English language workshop will be offered at Indiana University during the Inter-session, June 2-17.

The workshop will "specifically address itself to the problems of developing an adequate description and pragmatic knowledge of black English," said Maurice L. Imhoff, coordinator of the Urban and Overseas English Programs in the I. U. School of Education.

It will also "support the position that students may learn a second dialect, as they learn a second language, without attempting to destroy the first," he said.

"Not only are black language and black speech behavior little known but there are such language and cultural differences between white and black patterns that language programs conceived by middle-class white or black educators have largely failed.

The workshop, which will offer three hours of graduate credit, is restricted to students who have had at least one introductory course in language or linguistics.

The course will be conducted by a member of the Urban and Overseas English Program staff, with the assistance from visiting and local consultants. The I. U. Institute of Afro-American Studies is the sponsor.

"College study" series offered on IU-PU Campus

The 38th Street Campus of IU-PU cooperating with school systems and Cooperative Extension Service will sponsor twenty-one sections of the "How to Study in College" in summer series in a schedule beginning June 8 and extending August 21. The course will be offered here and in ten other central Indiana locations.

The non-credit course is for high school graduates who will be attending any college or university in the fall. Its purpose is to improve study habits and help the high school graduate make effective adjustments for college life.

Registrations are now being accepted for classes to be held in Anderson, Columbus, Franklin, Greensburg, Indianapolis, Lebanon, New Castle, Richmond, Rushville, Shelbyville, and Tipton. Each class meets two hours daily for one week during the summer. Another hour is scheduled each day for personal consultation.

Nine sections will be held in the Krannert Building on the 38th Street Campus.

Course content covers the vocabulary of college, the art of listening, taking lecture notes, the college catalog, motivation for study, basic plan for textbook reading, scheduling study time, using the college library, and preparing for examinations. Local campus faculty members teach various sections. This year a special section in Indianapolis for adults has been added during the week of August 17.

Registrations, which include payment of fees, are now being accepted in the order received. Some class sections are filled and closed early.

Your professional beautician knows the answer...

Is peroxide needed to color unwanted gray hair?

Hair care and beauty experts know that the first traces of gray hair—and even slight fading of natural color after chemical relaxing—can dull a woman's appearance and make her look older than she feels. While most women hate these premature aging effects, many are hesitant about using permanent peroxide haircoloring which may change the natural hair color while coloring gray.

Professionally-trained hairdressers know the importance of their customers' preferences when unwanted gray becomes a problem. These experts also know that Clairol created semi-permanent Loving Care® hair color lotion without peroxide... to color only the gray without changing the natural shade. They also find Loving Care blends back color faded by chemical processing. Because of its mildness, Loving Care maintains healthy looking hair and lasts through a month of shampoos.

Whatever a woman's reason for wanting Loving Care for her hair, she is always wise to consult a professional beautician. Hairdressers are equipped with a family of fine Clairol products and the training to promise each patron the loveliest and most personalized haircoloring effects every time she visits her salon. If you dislike gray, and want no peroxide, why not ask your beautician to glamorize it with Loving Care?

Schools receive Lilly grant for volunteer aides

The Indianapolis Public School system has been awarded a grant of $27,000.00 to be used over a period of three years beginning in August, 1970, to assist in the operation of a program providing volunteer aides to assist in classrooms, offices, school libraries, lunchrooms, and tutorial tasks. The grant was made by Lilly Endowment, Inc. and is to be used for the salaries, in-service training of aides, and for evaluation costs. In addition to the Lilly grant, the Junior League of Indianapolis is awarding a grant of $3,000.00 on a one-year basis with the possibility of renewal for two additional years. This amount is to be used toward the salary of the coordinator.

The number of volunteers recruited by the League has grown steadily from five in the first year of the program to 125 at the present time. In addition to these, many schools have made use of the services of volunteers through local contacts. Indications point to the possibility of four or five hundred qualified volunteers being available for the coming school year.

In-service training has been provided by the Indianapolis Public School Division of Curriculum and Supervision for volunteer workers in specialized areas. Many of these workers are professionally trained persons who for various reasons cannot accept full time employment but who are interested in contributing some of their time to the schools.

The Lilly Endowment and Junior League grants will make possible the employment of a coordinator working part time to arrange for the assignment of volunteers to the schools where the services will be most in need, the distribution of materials, and in-service programs where needed. The schools will furnish office, space, telephone service, and office supplies for the coordinator who may be assigned other duties of a supervisory or consultative nature.

Federal funds for area demolition approved by MDC

A resolution authorizing an application for federal funds to be used to demolish 354 deteriorated structures in a near northside area of the city was passed last week by the Metropolitan Development Commission.

The area is bounded by Washington Street on the South; Woodstock Country Club on the North Pershing Ave. and Riverside on the West; Route 1-65 and North-western Ave. and Meridian St. on the East. Excluded from the program is the University Quarter area.

Included in the listing of condemned structures to be removed are 192 houses, 102 garages, 12 commercial buildings, eight apartment buildings and 30 sheds. Officials of Metropolitan Development said no persons will be displaced by the demolition program, which will be administered for the Department by the Division of Code Enforcement. All funds requested for the program will be used for actual demolition and related costs and work will be awarded to private contractors on a bid basis. Included in the requests is $25,000, to be used for rodent control at the demolition sites.

Metropolitan Development officials pointed out that the purpose for the program is to rid the area of condemned structures, in order to eliminate health and safety hazards, and to lend incentive for good care and maintenance by the owners of the other structures in the area, which are considered basically sound.

This area is designated to receive special code enforcement emphasis as part of a 10-year Comprehensive Housing Code Compliance Program carried out by the Marion County Health and Hospital Corporation.

Total cost of the project is $301,520, two-thirds of which will be paid by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Black mayor in Dixie to be aired by ABC on May 4

NEW YORK.--"Black Mayor in Dixie" surveying life today in Fayette, Miss. where Charles Evers, displaced a white mayor less than a year will be the subject for the ABC broadcast, May 4, (10:30 p.m. EDT).

The ABC series "Now" takes viewers on a visit to Fayette, Miss., a town of less than 2,000 persons. ABC News National Affairs Editor, William H. Lawrence visits with Mayor Charles Evers of the town, a national figure in the area of civil rights.

Some 70 percent of the population of Fayette, Mississippi, the county seat of Jefferson County, is black. Yet, before Charles Evers' decision to run for mayor, the town had never had a black elected official. Thus far, the political experiment has worked out so well that Evers is already talking about capturing the county government in the next election.

The transition from white to black leadership has not been without its difficulties, as Mayor Evers readily admits in a probing interview with Lawrence. But the serious problems have been fewer than anyone had anticipated, and the Mayor's rigid law enforcement policies and even-handed practices have come under fire as frequently from his black constituents as from the white citizenry.

"Black Mayor in Dixie" gives viewers an inside look at Charles Evers, the man and the mayor, through filmed meetings of his administrative staff, a walking tour through the predominantly black sections of Fayette, and a court session over which Evers also presides as town judge.

The racist paper that was passed out implied that if students were caught about the abuse they had received from the minority races, namely the blacks, that it was best to take the ultimate step and deal with the problem themselves.... throw the blacks out into the streets. throughout the city." "I sincerely believe," Major Wolf related, "that if we can stem the flow of narcotics, we would have taken a giant step in eliminating the burglaries, the strong arm robberies and the prostitution that naturally follow a narcotics operation."

During Tuesday's meeting several members of the group accused the police department of being "jacksnails" in law enforcement along the Avenue.

"From all appearances it would seem that most of the police along the Avenue are more interested in writing traffic tickets than in enforcing the more serious law violations," John King, of Skills Unlimited, observed.

A side from the obvious drop in revenue because people are afraid to come to the Avenue to shop—especially after dark, the members of the newly-formed organization also cited spiraling insurance rates (or being unable to obtain insurance coverage) as another factor which discourages operators of existing establishments and scares away others who might be interested in opening a business in the Indiana Avenue area.

"Insurance costs around here always were high, but it's gotten to the place, where insurance costs are prohibitive," one disgruntled Ave. businessman complained.

frontation" over the Supreme Court nominees.

"I much prefer fighting for something positive," he commented. "The best you can say is that at least something negative didn't happen."

Bayh denied that the Senate wants to prevent a conservative or a strict constructionist from sitting on the Supreme Court bench. He pointed out that he had voted for Chief Justice Warren Burger who "is not exactly a flaming liberal."

He went on to charge that Nixon had damaged national unity by insisting that the Senate would not confirm a Southerner.

"For the President to say that Carswell was the best he could find in the South is wrong," Bayh said. "I wish the President would come back with a man who represents the best interests of the South."

The President, according to Bayh, has lost some support among congressmen of his own party because of the tactics used to get votes for Carswell.

"It's unfortunate that the President takes this personally," Bayh said. "We want to get the best man regardless of the region he comes from or his political philosophy."

In his speech, Bayh blamed the President's economic policies for rising costs and increasing unemployment. He charged that the nation may be "slipping into a period of economic stagnation."

Nixon, he said, has not used the methods available to him to control inflation.

Bayh said that high interest rates have "effectively priced most families out of the housing market" and have driven small builders "to the brink of bankruptcy."

Large industries and lenders are making a profit at the expense of the salaried man, the retired person on fixed income who has been forced to foot the bill for inflation," he said.

"Meanwhile," Bayh said, "the country remains tense and divided. Unemployment in the ghettos is creeping up while the Southern strategy makes it increasingly clear that equal opportunity for our minority citizens has a low priority in the administration's scale of values."

"Such circumstances are unlikely to promote social tranquility in our major cities, or meet the rising expectations of America's minorities," he asserted.

Rep. Hamilton, in his introduction of Bayh, said that "signs of rejuvenation and revitalization" are beginning to appear in the Democratic Party.

"We are going through the agonizing process of trying to make ourselves more democratic so no one is shut out from the decision-making process," he said.

grams. Accomplishment of this goal will enable us to ensure that our expanding programs of housing and urban development are serving all Americans."

Assistant Secretary Simmons said, "We have an imperative need for racial and ethnic data. Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968, the Fair Housing Law, makes us responsible for providing fair housing throughout the United States. It says specifically that we shall 'administer the programs and activities relating to housing and urban development in a manner affirmatively to further the policies of this title.'"

"We do not feel we can live up to this responsibility unless we can identify the beneficiaries of HUD programs."

Mr. Simmons gave two other reasons for establishing a systematic data collection system.

"This will increase our efficiency in measuring the impact of our programs," he said. "It will also give us the data we need to measure compliance with our other equal opportunity laws and Executive Orders, such as Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and the Executive Order concerning non-discrimination in housing and related facilities."

He said that detailed procedures for the collection of such data had not been determined, but would be developed by the working group.

in the home of Duff's mother, Mrs. Lillian Duff, 3119 Winthrop, where the victim was a roomer.

Officers called to investigate the report of a shooting at the Park Avenue address, found Canady on the floor of the residence. He had been shot once in the left side of the chest with a 22-caliber revolver and doctor pronounced him dead on arrival at General Hospital.

Miss Hogan, arrested at the scene, admitted firing the fatal shot but claimed the revolver had discharged "accidentally," police reported.

According to Dept. Sgt. Howard Krammer of the police homicide division, Miss Hogan admitted she and the victim, who were described as long-time "friends," had been arguing.

"She told us that Canady was 'signifying' about her and had referred to her as a 'bitch,' Sgt. Kramer told the Recorder.

While being questioned at police headquarters, Miss Hogan, who served a sentence at the Indiana Women's Prison after being convicted of another about 10 year ago, claimed she only intended to "scare" Canady with the gun, the detective related.

"When he (Canady) kept signifying, I picked up the gun which was laying on a table and pointed it at Jesse, but it went off accidentally," she was quoted as saying.

Several other persons present at the time of the shooting were reported to have made statement to police on the events preceding to shooting. Police officials, however, refused to divulge the contents of those statements.

After an appearance in Municipal court, Miss Hogan was ordered held without bond in the county jail.

On Tuesday afternoon, Luster summoned police to his home on the city's Northeast-side. He told the officers that he accidentally shot his common-law wife when a 12-gauge shotgun was cleaning discharged accidentally.

body lying on the floor in the living room of the home.

Luster told police homicide detective that he and Miss Millin had lived together for nine year and were parents of a nine-year old daughter.

Det. Sgt. Frank Zunk of the police homicide division, who is in charge of the investigation, said Luster has steadfastly contended the shooting was accidental.

In a statement to the detectives, the accused slayer explained that his wife had staying home Tuesday from her job at RCA and that he had decided to remain home with her.

"Susie was sitting in the den and I had cleaned my revolver and had started to clean my shotgun when she asked me to turn off the radio. As I turned around the gun went off," he reportedly told police.

The blast from the shotgun struck Miss Millin in the left side of her chest. She was dead when police arrived.

Continuing his explanation of the shooting, Luster said he carried Miss Millin until the livingroom and telephoned police.

Without further explanation, Sgt. Zunk told the Recorder on Thursday that there were several aspects of the case that "warranted further investigation."

The were no witnesses to the shooting. The couple's daughter was in school at the time.

A preliminary charge of murder was lodged against Luster and he appeared Wednesday in Municipal Ct. Room 10. During the court appearance he was ordered held in the county jail pending action by the Marion Co. Grand Jury.

In the third killing, Wednesday the first officers on the scene found Duff standing over Covington, who was sprawled on the floor.

According to Capt. Edward Clouse, head of the police division, Duff claims the shooting was self-defense but has refused to give any further details.

"He told us that Covington came at him with a butcher knife before he fired the fatal shots," the captain related.

He also disclosed that a 12-inch butcher knife was recovered at the scene.

He was ordered held without bail after a court appearance Thursday.

"This is the day which the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it." Psalm 118:24

Now that the Apollo 13 astronauts have returned to the earth safely, I am sure that we can rest our minds in peace. During the days of fear everyone engaged in prayer for their safe return to the earth.

We note excerpts from the President's Prayer of Thanksgiving, as follows: "the imperiled flight and safe return of the crew of Apollo 13 were events that humbled and inspired people all over the world..."

"Particularly inspiring was the spontaneous outpouring of prayer, from every corner of the world, from members of every faith, calling upon God in His infinite mercy to bring home to safety to our small planet three fellow human beings."

"Now James A. Lovel, Jr., Fred W. Haise, Jr. and John L. Swigert, Jr. are home again."

"The prayers of millions all over the world helped to bring them home safely. I urge my fellow Americans and all the people of the world to join me in offering another prayer, one of deep thanks, for the safe return of the crew of Apollo 13..."

Coin machine for drunk tests exhibited here

A coin operated device, a counterpart of the "breathalyzer" was demonstrated here last week-end by Robert F. Borkenstein, Indiana University professor and inventor of the device for determining the alcohol in a person's blood. The coin-operated device might be installed in places or locations where alcoholic beverages are dispensed, and persons imbibing the like might put a coin into the device and "theoretically" determine one's "compatibility" with "John Barleycorn."

The original device, "breathalyzer" was constituted by Prof. Borkenstein in 1954 and according to reports has been used internationally by law enforcement officials to determine blood - alcohol ratios.

Chicago College head speaks on Purdue Campus

HAMMOND--The president of Malcom X Community College, Chicago, Dr. Charles G. Hurst, Jr., spoke here last week - end on Purdue University Calumet Campus. His subject was "Mis-Education 1970." The History Club of the Purdue Campus sponsored his appearance.

Dr. Hurst has attracted some national attention for his original ideas and strong convictions about education. He has initiated significant innovations in education since assuming the presidency of the branch of Chicago City College in 1969, formerly titled Crane Junior College.

He has demonstrated at Malcom X that disadvantaged and alienated young Negro people, high school dropouts or others who are horizontally illiterate can be persuaded that education is "the way out."

With competent teaching he maintains the young people quickly overcome their scholastic deficiencies. The two year course at Malcom X combines remedial work with college with college credit courses and emphasizes vocational training sufficiently to prepare terminal students for good jobs. But it does not trap, in a "dead end situation" those who wish to continue their education.

Dr. Hurst earned his Ph. D. A.M. and A.B. degrees at Wayne State University. He has served as consultant for the Job Corps, the National Conference of Christian and Jews and many school boards throughout the nation.

He served as assistant dean and professor of audiology at Howard University before coming to Chicago, and before joining the Howard faculty in 1961 he served eight years at Wayne State University. He was assistant director of the Wayne State Remedial Program.

THESE ARE NURSES IN ACTION.
Men and women working together!

This is the growing trend in nursing today... male RNs working side by side with their female counterparts. And there are good reasons. Namely, the critical need (which men are beginning to recognize) and the satisfying rewards (both personal and financial).

Frankly, the nursing profession is no breeze. It takes understanding, compassion and dedication. It also takes brains, leadership, physical strength, stamina and the capacity to grow on the job. New surgical and medical techniques are initiated frequently in patient care... and the actual number of patients is on the increase with the expanding population. Nursing is no job for laggards. It's a real challenge in today's society.

How do you start? First, you must qualify as a high school graduate in the top 50% of your class. Next you may enroll in a 2-year associate degree course scheduled to start right here in Indianapolis in September, 1970. Scholarships are available for those who require financial assistance.

Where does it lead? It leads to a starting salary of close to $8,200* with an increase in earning potential to $10,000 in a short time. In fact, with additional education, you can progress to $15,000 and beyond per year. For complete information, return the attached coupon, and start yourself on the road to a most satisfying career.
